Join us for the 12th Annual Risk & Safety Expo

Two-day conference focused on workplace safety, risk management, emergency preparedness, and employee wellness.

The City of McAllen will host the 12th Annual Risk & Safety Expo as part of its continued commitment to strengthening workplace safety and advancing risk awareness through training and education that supports organizations and protects employees across the region.

Held annually during National Safety Month, this conference brings together risk management, safety, human resources, insurance, and public sector professionals from across Texas to explore emerging trends, challenges, and solutions shaping today's workplace environments.

As the only conference of its kind in South Texas, the McAllen Risk & Safety Expo provides accessible, high quality professional development opportunities for organizations seeking to strengthen workplace safety, reduce risk, and protect their most asset, their people.

Attendees will hear from industry experts and participate in sessions covering workplace safety, regulatory and legislative updates, risk financing, claims management, cybersecurity, emerging technologies, artificial intelligence, employee wellness, and other key issues impacting both public and private sector organizations.

The conference also offers meaningful networking opportunities for participants to connect with peers, industry leaders, vendors, and subject matter experts while sharing best practices and proven approaches to risk management and safety.

"Safety is not just a responsibility, it is a commitment to our employees, our organizations, and the communities we serve," said City Manager Isaac J. Tawil. "The Risk & Safety Expo brings together professionals from across Texas to share knowledge, explore innovative solutions, and strengthen the practices that help create safer workplaces and more resilient organizations."
